

Life's a movie <3 v2

Since the previous PVC, we didn't have any movie nights. Well of course, we've never had those that often. But something we've all done a lot lately, is watching movies on our own. Now we all know watching movies in the evening. And we all know watching movies in the cinema. But now that this entire PVC is a little hungover-related, let's talk about watching movies in the morning. Whether it's on Guus in the IA room, alone in bed, or with your roommates on the couch, morning-movies are amazing.

But the problem with morning-movies, is that you're interested in very different types of movies. You can watch 6 movies in a row, with not a single one of them being what you're looking for. For this, we've reviewed some movies, to make your next hangover a little better:

Beerfest

A Goofy Movie

Feuten het Feestje

ATLA (not the movie)

Catwoman

Renesse

Raya and the Last Dragon

The Cat Returns

The last airbender (the movie)

Monty Python

Jackass

Eurotrip

Having written this small list, it appears to be the same list as movies to watch while you're drunk. Good to know!

Ad

For the SocCie

Last PVC, the SocCie had an ad for their extra drinks that night! There was Nozem, Rocketshot, and Raketjes, and it was amazing. Even though we'll keep it at normal drinks tonight, it might be nice to honour that ad by chugging a small ad.

Dies

From the DiesCie

We've got something to celebrate because Inter-Actief is turning 41 years old tomorrow! To celebrate, our wonderful DiesCie committee, together with the DipsomanIA has, thrown a lovely children's themed birthday party last Tuesday. The nostalgic feeling of playing board games, eating snacks and colouring pages. But the fun doesn't stop there! Yesterday, we had a lovely diner at the Twentste Foodhal accompanied by an open bar. As some may have noticed, this resulted in an association room full of hungover people this morning. Finally, on 12 March, the day Inter-Actief will turn 41 years old, we'll celebrate by going to the exciting city Cologne in Germany. Here you are free to choose one of the many activities provided in our booklet, but of course, you are free to do anything while you are in the city.

Lost:

What? Tooth.

Where? Around the Twentsche Foodhal.

Hangover killers

From Egbert

Translated: It's Friday March 11th. The day after the dies dinner. Today sucks. It all started horrible, the boiler was empty. However, when I entered the room, there were 'mimosa's' everywhere. How magical !!

What do you need for this amazing stuff?

- 200ml bubbles
- 50ml fresh orange juice

Throw it all together in a single cup and you're done, 'super goed'!

Public Void Puzzle());

Every public void close() contains a puzzle to exercise your mind. For this puzzle, we wanted to do something geography related, but since original geography questions are hard to find, we went in another direction. The answer to this puzzle is a location on campus, in spirit of the How-To-Pandora video that was released this week. Good luck puzzling!

If you need some more motivation: the first person or group to hand over the correct solution to the bartenders will receive eleven free drinks from the bartenders!

Space filler

A normal PVC uses all space, because otherwise, it's a waste of paper.

However, there wasn't enough inspiration to do that properly this week, so here are the lyrics to an amazing verse of Lift Yourself, by American rapper Kanye West.
